

Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Practices Module Quick Reference Guide

Purpose

The TIER Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Practices module comprises three pathways, or trainings. These pathways, designed for teachers, administrators, district staff, and education service center staff, guide educators in understanding the concept and importance of culturally and linguistically responsive practices (CLRP), as well as how to implement CLRP in schools.

| Pathway | Objectives |
|---|---|
|  Essentials | This pathway provides an overview of CLRP. Educators learn what these practices are; what they look like at the classroom, school, and district levels; and connections between CLRP and restorative practices. |
|  Incorporation in Academic Instruction | This pathway explores how to incorporate CLRP within academic instruction in a multi-tiered system of supports (MTSS) framework. |
|  Considerations for Behavior Interventions | In this pathway, educators explore culturally and linguistically responsive considerations for behavior interventions in an MTSS framework. These considerations apply to all tiers of MTSS. |

Training and Support

To engage in any of the CLRP module pathways or to receive support for implementation, contact a Certified TIER Trainer in your region by visiting sped.support/mtss-trainers.
